Jane's Addiction guitarist Dave Navarro has issued an apology to the support bands affected by their cancelled tour, as the rock group quietly released their new single "True Love".

The band's reunion tour came to an abrupt end after a dramatic altercation between Navarro and his bandmate Perry Farrell.

Navarro marked the release of "True Love" on Thursday with a fresh statement to Instagram, expressing pride in the work done on the song and sadness that it may never be performed live.

Earlier in the week, Navarro, Avery, and Perkins cited Farrell's behavior as the reason behind the tour cancellation.

In a separate statement, Farrell apologized for his actions during the show.

Navarro's latest statement implies that a reunion is unlikely in the future.
