Emme, Jennifer Lopez's Child, Unveils New Name

Description

Jennifer Lopez is celebrating a significant moment as her twins officially graduate from high school. However, fans are also curious about a possible name change for one of her children, Emme Muñiz, who may now be called Oskar Muñiz.

Speculation increased after a social media post, highlighting graduating students from Windward School, mentioned the name Oskar. This post, shared on March 6, included a childhood photo of Emme and noted their plans to attend Sarah Lawrence College in New York. The post playfully mentioned, "No more impromptu NYC trips because he'll be living there!"

Despite no official confirmation from Lopez or Emme, many fans think the post suggests a name change. Interestingly, actress Jennifer Garner expressed her support by liking the Instagram post. Garner was previously married to Ben Affleck, who is now with Lopez.

This name speculation follows closely after Lopez attended Emme's graduation ceremony. Photos from the event showed her celebrating with her mother and Samuel Affleck, Ben Affleck's youngest child. However, Emme's father, Marc Anthony, was not present at the ceremony.

Lopez has candidly shared her feelings about her children growing up and leaving home. On Jimmy Kimmel Live!, she admitted to finding this transition emotional, having been "crying for two months." She supports her children attending separate colleges, believing it is essential for them to follow their dreams.

As Emme prepares for college, fans are eagerly awaiting clarity on the name change, marking a new chapter for the family.
