

February 2026 Love Horoscope: What to Expect Today

Description

On Thursday, February 26, 2026, Mercury begins its retrograde in Pisces, which is usually known for causing confusion and misunderstandings. However, this particular retrograde offers a chance for personal growth and clarity.

During this time, you may find it easier to reflect on the last few years and gain confidence for the future. It is important to focus on what you desire going forward rather than dwelling on past mistakes. Avoid making sudden decisions related to relationships, such as breaking up or starting a new one. Instead, take this opportunity to explore your feelings and understand what path you want to take moving ahead.

For each zodiac sign, the effects of this retrograde vary. Aries should accept that not everything needs an answer right away, while Taurus is cautioned against rushing into new choices. Gemini is encouraged to recognise that self-discovery is just as important as romantic pursuits. Cancer is advised to seize love opportunities without hesitation.

Leo is reminded to stay authentic, while Virgo should be prepared for the return of past partners and consider what their presence means. Libra can use this time for personal reassessment, and Scorpio should confront truths in their relationships. Sagittarius is urged to create a nurturing home environment. Capricorn must communicate openly, but delay major decisions, and Aquarius should evaluate their relationship dynamics.

For Pisces, this retrograde is a period for introspection, allowing time to process changes since 2011. Reflecting on your personal journey will help prepare you for the future.
