

Gwyneth Paltrow and Chris Martin Cheer On Daughter Apple's Debutante Ball Debut

Description

Gwyneth Paltrow and Chris Martin went to a ball in Paris. They went to see their daughter, Apple Martin. She was at a special event for young women. Apple is 20 years old. The event is called le Bal des Débutantes.

This event is very special. Only certain people are invited. It is for young women from well-known families. Money raised from the event goes to charity.

Others who went to the event include Apple's brother Moses Martin, and her grandmother, actor Blythe Danner.

On Sunday, Paltrow wrote on Instagram that the event was special. She also posted pictures. In one picture, Paltrow is with her son, her mother, and Chris Martin.

In another picture, Paltrow is with Apple. Apple wore a beautiful blue dress. It took 750 hours to make this dress.

There is also a video of Apple dancing with her dad, Chris Martin. They look happy and are laughing.

Paltrow and Martin were married from 2003 to 2014. They are not married anymore but they still do things together, like going to the ball.

The debutante ball is an old tradition from France. Young women used to be introduced to society at these events. It is now a modern event.

Other famous people and their children have also been to this ball before. This includes Lily Collins, Reese Witherspoon's daughter Ava Phillippe and Bruce Willis and Demi Moore's daughters Tallulah and Scout Willis.
