Kanye's Shocking Attack on Jay-Z and Beyoncé's Kids Pushes Kim to Her Limit

Description

Kim Kardashian has reached her breaking point after Kanye West launched a shocking, all-caps tirade against Beyoncé and Jay-Z's two youngest children on X (formerly Twitter) this past Tuesday evening.

A source close to Kim revealed to Page Six that she is "appalled" that her ex-husband would resort to such language, especially concerning children. "Kim has had enough; she's tired of trying to communicate reasonably with Kanye," the insider disclosed.

The 44-year-old reality star finds West's comments "shocking and offensive," asserting that regardless of any ongoing disputes he might have with Jay-Z and Beyoncé, children should always be off-limits.

In an unprovoked attack, West, aged 47, questioned the mental capacity of 7-year-old twins Rumi and Sir before initially deleting the post—only to share it again early Wednesday morning. He later claimed that he removed the post not out of remorse but to avoid jeopardizing his account. West said, "I need everyone to know that I took the post down because there was a possibility of my Twitter being cancelled." Recently, tensions have escalated between the former couple due to a new track, "Lonely Roads Still Go to Sunshine," which seemingly includes their daughter, North. Sources indicate that Kim is now opting to communicate with Kanye solely through mediators, as her family expresses concern over his negative influence in their lives.

The pair, who married in May 2014 and finalized their divorce in November 2022, share four children together. Representatives for both parties have yet to respond to Page Six's requests for comment.
