

Kim Kardashian Declares This Injury Hurt More Than Giving Birth

Description

Reality star Kim Kardashian suffered a frightening bathroom accident that left her with injured fingers. On a recent episode of "The Kardashians," Kim shared that she accidentally cut her index and middle fingers while closing her shower door. The Skims founder revealed the shocking moment when she noticed blood gushing from her hand and saw a part of her bone sticking out. Despite the intense pain, Kim remained composed and sought help immediately.

After visiting the doctor, Kim learned that her nails might never grow back on the injured fingers. She underwent extensive hyperbaric medicine treatment to aid in healing. Although she joked about not having time for daily treatments, Kim expressed relief when her doctor confirmed that her hand was healing well and would not require amputation.

In a light-hearted moment, Kim compared her injured fingers to the "Saw 2" logo. However, she received reassurance from her doctor that she had dodged a potentially severe outcome. Kim also shared a video on Instagram showcasing her bandaged hand while promoting her brand, Skkn By Kim.

Despite the scary accident, Kim is on the path to recovery and grateful for avoiding a more serious injury. Her resilient attitude and humorous approach to the situation have garnered support from fans and followers. Joyann Jeffrey, a trending news reporter based in New York City, captured the details of Kim Kardashian's bathroom mishap with insightful commentary.
