

King Charles and Queen Consort Attend US Celebration Events

Description

King Charles III and Queen Camilla commemorated the 9/11 memorial during their visit to New York City, emphasising the importance of remembrance and international relations on their third day in the United States.

During their visit to the September 11 Memorial & Museum, the royals laid flowers and interacted with families of victims, marking the devastating attacks' 25th anniversary. This act of remembrance underlines the historical significance of the event, resonating not only within the United States but also with the UK's commitment to solidarity.

In addition to their memorial visit, King Charles engaged with community initiatives, including a community farming project in Harlem, where he assisted children with planting crops and feeding chickens. This visit highlights his dedication to social welfare and educational programmes addressing systemic challenges in urban areas.

The King also attended a trade and business event at Rockefeller Centre, where he met with business leaders. This meeting aimed to strengthen economic ties between the UK and the US, with emphasis on the significant impact of UK investments, which support over 2.5 million jobs across both nations.

Queen Camilla participated in a literary event at the New York Public Library, where she read to children and donated a Winnie-the-Pooh doll, promoting cultural engagement and literacy.

The day concluded with a reception for The King's Trust, where King Charles reinforced the longstanding partnership between the two countries. This four-day trip signifies not only a celebration of historical ties but also a proactive approach to fostering contemporary relationships.

Looking ahead, the royal couple plans to continue their visit with further engagements in Virginia, following a formal farewell from President Trump.
