

Microsoft plans to expand in Southeast Asia with a new data center in Thailand

Description

Microsoft's CEO Satya Nadella recently announced a groundbreaking initiative in Thailand, unveiling plans to invest in the country's first data center, part of the Cloud First platform. This move underscores Microsoft's commitment to Southeast Asia, with a focus on boosting AI capabilities in the region.

The tech giant will also support AI skills training for over 100,000 individuals and collaborate with local developers to drive innovation. While the exact investment amount remains undisclosed, the impact of these commitments is expected to be significant.

Nadella's announcement comes on the heels of a $1.7 billion investment in Indonesia over the next four years for cloud and AI infrastructure development. Highlighting Thailand's potential for a digital-first future, Microsoft aims to fuel growth and impact in both the public and private sectors.

This strategic move aligns with Microsoft's broader expansion efforts in Southeast Asia, following the establishment of data centers in Malaysia and Indonesia in 2021. The company's focus on AI skilling programs for 2.5 million people in the ASEAN region further underscores its commitment to driving digital innovation and economic growth in the region.
