

---

NBA Twitter responds to news about Steve Kerr and Warriors' new contract

Description

Steve Kerr is the coach of the Golden State Warriors, a basketball team. In the 2023-24 season, Kerr's contract with the team was about to end. But before the season finished, the Warriors decided to keep him as a coach.

They agreed to pay him $35 million for two more years. This means Kerr will get $17.5 million each year. This is the highest pay any coach has received in the history of the league.

Kerr started working with the Warriors in 2014. Since then, he has won 501 games and four championships for the team. He did this with the help of players like Steph Curry, Klay Thompson, and Draymond Green.

When news of Kerr's new contract came out, people on Twitter talked about it. They posted messages and shared their thoughts on Friday night. This information first appeared on a site called Warriors Wire.

---

Vocabulary List:

1. Contract // (noun): A binding agreement between two or more parties.
2. Championships // (noun): A competition to determine the best among all contestants.
3. Agreed // (verb): Reached a mutual understanding or acceptance.
4. Twitter // (noun): An online social media platform for posting and interacting with short messages called tweets.
5. Messages // (noun): Written or spoken information conveyed from one person to another.
6. Appeared // (verb): Came into sight or view.

CATEGORY

1. Uncategorized

Date Created

2024/02/25

Author

aimeeyoung99