

Nintendo Reveals Reasons Behind Super Mario Galaxy Movie's Pace

Description

Nintendo's Shigeru Miyamoto has talked about why The Super Mario Galaxy Movie is so fast. The film lasts about 90 minutes. Some viewers think it moves too quickly and does not let them relax. However, this fast pace was planned.

In an interview with Nintendo Dream, Miyamoto spoke about the film's jokes and moments for fans. He said that the makers at Illumination know a lot about Super Mario. Their aim was to make a movie that both kids and parents would enjoy. This is why the movie is so fast-paced.

Miyamoto explained that they made the film with many short parts. For example, thirty three-minute parts equal 90 minutes. He likes to keep all parts because they work well together. He wanted to avoid a film where parents feel bored while children run around.

Miyamoto also answered some bad reviews about the movie. He mentioned that Nintendo might use the character Peach's story from the film in future games.
