

Over 250 young players compete in World Junior Golf Championship for the Daily Mail title at beautiful Marbella course.

Description

As the sun went down, a very exciting golf event began. Many young players came from all over the world to play in the Junior World Golf Tournament. Some players were only a little taller than their golf bags. However, they all stood tall on the golf course. The course was beautiful, but also very difficult. They all played three days of great golf.

One young player, Fraser Walters, did very well. He was better than all the other players by eight shots. Fraser had won this tournament last year too. However, his mum said he hadn't been well a few days ago and had been in hospital.

Another young player, a boy from Denmark, won his game. He played against his best friend. It was exciting because they had to play extra holes. However, his friend missed a short shot. The boy was happy but he also felt bad for his friend. He said it was hard to see his friend miss the shot.

Obviously, these young players have big dreams and are very talented. They may become famous golfers in the future.
