Description

Good morning, everyone! Keep your binoculars handy as you may be able to spot a rare "devil comet" right after sunset on Sunday. Now, let's move on to the latest news.

In the music world, Taylor Swift has surprised fans with the release of a double album titled "The Tortured Poets Department," featuring a total of 31 songs. While many expected the album to focus on her breakup with Joe Alwyn, it also references past relationships with Matty Healy and Travis Kelce. The lead single, "Fortnight," will have a music video featuring Post Malone premiering tonight at 8 p.m. ET.

In other news, tensions between Israel and Iran escalate as reports confirm an Israeli airstrike on an Iranian military base. The strike, which caused minimal damage, was downplayed by both countries. Meanwhile, in the U.S., Donald Trump's hush money trial is underway, with jurors selected and opening arguments expected soon.

Stay informed and make sure to catch the latest developments in the NBA playoffs, as well as other events happening today. And don't miss out on the feel-good moment of the day: a group of ballerinas breaking a Guinness World Record in New York City.
