

Television Academy connects students with entertainment industry internships

Description

Le'Anne Norfleet, a former student at Gardena Senior High School, has been chosen to participate in the Television Academy Foundation Internship Program. This prestigious program selects 40 students from all over the country to take part in paid internships at top Hollywood studios and production companies. Norfleet, who will be a senior at UCLA this fall, will be interning at Warner Bros. Television Group in Burbank. She expressed her excitement about gaining hands-on experience in the entertainment industry and networking with industry professionals. The Television Academy Foundation aims to educate and inspire the next generation of television professionals by providing resources and opportunities for career development. Established in 1959, the foundation offers professional development sessions and networking opportunities for its alumni. Norfleet is looking forward to this valuable experience as she prepares for a career in the entertainment industry. For more information, visit televisionacademy.com/foundation.
