Thank Elon Musk for Claude's Development

Description

I went to Anthropic's developer conference this week in San Francisco. The big news is that Anthropic is renting computer power from a data centre run by SpaceX. This means if you use Claude, Anthropic's AI chatbot, it will work faster and better thanks to Elon Musk.

Recently, Anthropic faced issues with its chatbot. Many developers could not use it properly. This made some developers unhappy. Anthropic's CEO, Dario Amodei, said they are sorry for these problems. He promised they would get more computer power to improve service.

After the SpaceX deal, Anthropic removed some limits on its coding service called Claude Code. This is important because some developers moved to OpenAI's Codex due to fewer restrictions. Many businesses need more AI computer power.

Anthropic is growing quickly. If it continues to grow at this speed, it could become one of the biggest companies in the world. The demand for AI services is very high.
