Trent's Response to Amanda Wagner's Death: Season 4 Recap

Description

ABC's show "Will Trent" surprised viewers last week with the news that Amanda Wagner had been killed while looking for James Ulster's daughter, Adelaide Clemens. In the recent episode, directed by Ramón Rodríguez, the show revealed more about Amanda's brutal murder by one of Adelaide's followers.

The story began as police arrived at the crime scene. Special Agent Trent felt deep shock and sadness. Faith and other team members joined him but had to ask him to let the team do their work. However, Trent insisted on closing the body bag himself.

The GBI and APD worked together to catch Adelaide's followers. They discovered she was looking for secret money connected to Ulster. In a tense scene, Adelaide tried to force Will to make a terrible choice but was shot by him as she attempted to surrender. Luckily, Will managed to rescue his uncle Antonio just in time.

A memorial for Amanda occurred at Kay's Slaughterhouse. Many attended, including Faith's son Jeremy. While others paid their respects, Trent stayed away. He sat in Amanda's office, struggling to find words for her memory.

Sonja Sohn, who played Amanda, shared her feelings about her character's death on Instagram. She expressed appreciation for the fans' responses and reflected on the job's realities.
