

'Trimming The Herbs' Cleared by Super Mario Maker Community Days Before Wii U Online Shutdown

Description

News has emerged that every level of Super Mario Maker, a popular game created by Nintendo, has been completed before the termination of Nintendo's Wii U online. The significant achievement was made by the task force 'Team 0%,' known for having cleared every level of the game.

However, there was one standout level titled 'Trimming the Herbs.' Fans labeled this level illegitimate because it could only be cleared using tool-assisted speedrunning methods. Despite its dubious legality, the player community was dedicated to beating it.

In a heartening turn of events, 'Trimming the Herbs' was successfully completed with only a few days to spare before Nintendo's Wii U online shut down. The news was shared on the 'Games' subreddit, where they declared the level "conquered."

The victor of this almost impossible level is player 'sanyx91smm2,' who completed the challenge flawlessly in just 25 seconds. The impressive execution of such a difficult level was captured in a video and has since garnered a lot of appreciation from fans.

Team 0% promptly acknowledged the achievement on Twitter, posting their congratulations and sharing a full-clear video showcasing 'sanyx91smm2's' reaction.

Before 'Trimming the Herbs,' the last official level of the game, 'The Last Dance,' was vanquished by 'Yamada_SMM2' on March 15, 2024. These victories left no level unbeaten in the Super Mario Maker community, marking an impressive feat.

The Gamer Community is now looking forward to conquering the next challenge, Super Mario Maker 2.
