Description

The TV series "Industry" is currently in its third season. The intriguing tale follows a group of young adults working at Pierpoint, a large institution. The story revolves around their growth, learning, and personal transformation - a sort of financial coming-of-age story. The series delves into the characters' future and the impact of Pierpoint on their lives.

The latest season opens with a focus on character Yasmin, portrayed by Marisa Abela. The hardships she's encountering both personally and professionally are clearly visible. Yasmin is struggling under the weight of negative publicity while trying to hold onto her job at Pierpoint.

Creator duo, Mickey Down and Konrad Kay, have introduced ethical investment or ESG investing as the key financial topic for the season, making viewers ponder over whether working in finance can damage one's soul. The season is yet to unfold many more tales of high-stakes drama and comedy, promising much anticipation.

"Industry" has taken its viewers on a roller-coaster ride since its inception. The impact the show has on its audience is as real as the rollercoaster of emotions its characters endure. The determination, vulnerability, and resilience displayed by the characters serve as a reflection of the journeys many young adults encounter in their professional lives. This relatable narrative combined with real-life issues makes "Industry" a must-watch series.
