

WWE Creative Plans and Predictions for Night of Champions 2026

Description

WWE's sixth Premium Live Event of the year, Night of Champions, will happen in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, in less than 48 hours. Six matches have already been confirmed for the show. Recent reports suggest the expected winners for each match, making this event important for fans.

WrestleVotes spoke with a WWE source who shared information about the matches. In the main event, Cody Rhodes is expected to keep his Undisputed WWE Championship title against GUNTHER and Sami Zayn. This means he could go into SummerSlam still as champion. For the United States Championship, Trick Williams is likely to defeat Ricky Saints, while Tiffany Stratton is expected to win over Jade Cargill in the Women's United States Championship match. However, there is less certainty about Stratton's match.

For the King and Queen of the Ring Finals, IYO SKY is predicted to win against Women's World Champion Liv Morgan. However, the men's final between Oba Femi and Jey Uso has unclear outcomes, with WWE keeping plans very secret.

Lastly, Seth Rollins and Bron Breakker will compete for the third time in a steel cage match. There are no clear predictions for this battle, as multiple endings have been considered.
